South Florida Hurricane and Property Damage Claims Attorney

Is Your Home Covered?

After a violent storm has left its path of destruction, homeowners can be victimized yet again when an insurance company rejects a property damage claim. The Law Offices of Jonathan Kline hold insurance companies accountable for legitimate claims arising from hurricane damage and other events covered under homeowner policies.

Our South Florida law firm provides aggressive representation of homeowners and condominium associations in Broward County, Miami-Dade County, and Palm Beach County. Arrange for a FREE consultation to review your policy and claim.

Insurance Companies Hate Hurricane Damage Claims

A single tropical storm, tornado, or hurricane can result in millions of dollars in property damage claims. Thus, insurers look for every opportunity to discourage claims, limit payouts, or deny coverage outright. Insurance companies may rely on obscure policy exclusions and technicalities relating to premiums or applications. Or they say that you are covered — after an outrageous deductible.

PROPERTY DAMAGE INSURANCE CLAIMS

We provide legal services related to insurance claim presentation, coverage disputes, insurance bad faith issues, and insurance litigation. Insurance companies balk at paying claims, declaring that the loss is not covered, or offer to pay far less than the claim is worth. The reason is simple: insurance is a business, and insurance companies are motivated to keep their bottom line as healthy as possible.

Coverage disputes often involve very complex and difficult-to-understand insurance policies. Jonathan Kline can review your policy to determine whether you may have a claim. If you do have a coverage claim, a "bad faith" case against the insurance company might be in order. Insurance bad faith occurs when the insurer unreasonably denies a claim for coverage. In especially egregious circumstances, punitive damages may be awarded on top of coverage and bad faith damages. Jonathan Kline will confidently pursue all aspects of insurance-coverage cases.

Jonathan Kline can represent a policyholder and appear with them if the insurance company requires an "examination under oath." This is when the insurance company's attorney questions the policyholder in the presence of a court reporter under penalties of perjury (very similar to what is called a deposition).
